Drawing inspiration from the depths of imagination and the mysteries of the cosmos, Wood’s captivating sculptures challenge conventional perceptions of life and form. Through a harmonious fusion of organic and mechanical elements, his creations embody a sense of otherness that sparks wonder and curiosity in viewers. In “Under a Pink Sky,” Wood invites audiences to contemplate the possibilities of otherworldly existence, as his sculptures defy the boundaries of known biology and venture into uncharted territories of hybridity. From tentacle-like appendages that hint at sentience to intricate geometries that defy conventional structures, each piece serves as a portal to a universe teeming with potential and creativity. Craig Wood’s work has been included in gallery and museum exhibitions from coast to coast. His work can be seen in 500 Tiles: An Inspiring Collection of International Work published by Lark Books, and in the March 2024 issue of Ceramics Monthly magazine. Join us as we embark on a voyage of discovery with Craig Wood’s “Under a Pink Sky: Life on Planet X.” Experience the whimsy and playfulness of his ceramic sculptures and immerse yourself in a world where imagination knows no bounds.
