13. MOREAN CENTER FOR CLAY: 420 22nd St. S., St. Pete, FL 33712 - (727) 896-2529 – On View: August 9 – October 4. In the exhibition, you will find artisanal ceramic sculptures intended for more than just our viewing pleasures. When submerged, Samuels and Morrison’s art becomes a new habitat for marine life. Nina Samuels focuses on the contrast and connections between industrial items and marine growth, which stems from her marine restoration work submerging ceramic pieces underwater. Her exhibiting art features a series of manmade objects covered in marine life – both sculpted and real. Viewers will find ceramic vessels with meticulously sculpted and glazed textures, sculpted marine debris with ceramic growth, vessel shaped buoys with real barnacle growth, a small tank with native living growth on it and more. Nature has always been at the center of Charles Morrison’s work. “I often use wild clays and other natural materials as a medium to sculpt with. When I’m not using materials I have sourced from the earth, I’m making work inspired by it. Having grown up by the ocean and now being an artist in coastal Florida, I use the sea as a starting point for my ideas. Anything from the humblest microorganisms to the most revered fish in the sea are a constant source of inspiration. Whether I am making anatomically correct versions of sea creatures or using an abstracted version of their forms in a sculpture, the fluid nature of all ocean species comes to life in clay. The more I studied marine biology for my work, the more I marveled at it and desired to have another dimension of interaction in my work. I have begun making ceramic sculptures and submerging them underwater to serve as artificial marine reefs. This provides a habitat for the very creatures I am so inspired by.”

17. SUITE E STUDIOS: 615 27th St. S. Suite E, St. Pete, FL 33712 - (727) 280-6702 – Join us from 5–9PM during Second Saturday ArtWalk for a soft preview of Suite E Studios, one of the newest spaces coming to the Warehouse Arts District. Our studio's efforts are consistently inspired by the Derek Donnelly mural adorning the walls of the space we inherited, who previously had joined us to share insight about his work in an insightful question and answer. We wanted to keep the conversation going through a series of talks with the artists, organizations, and businesses featured in the mural, sharing their often undocumented and untold stories. Fixtures: Talking to the Wall - A monthly series of intimate conversations with the figures immortalized in our mural — artists who helped define our creative DNA. Each talk opens a window into the room beyond the painted walls, the people who shaped St. Pete behind the scenes, and curated the city's culture. For June's edition, we've invited artist, studio gallery owner, and non-profit organizer John Gascot to help us celebrate Pride. John established his studio in Pinellas Park over nine years ago and played a key role in founding the city's arts district, which Derrick Donnelly also calls home. For nearly a decade, he collaborated closely with city officials to develop a thriving arts community through a Community Redevelopment initiative. In 2023, he was given the opportunity to take on Artist Ownership of the Studios @ 5663 property—an essential link in the partnership between the city and local artists. Today, Studios @ 5663 hosts seven individual artist studios, two galleries, and two nonprofit organizations, including Diversity Arts. Now in its second year, Diversity Arts' Summer Art Camp offers free expressive arts programming to children from a wide range of cultural and economic backgrounds. This summer alone, the camp is expected to serve more than 400 kids. A queer artist hailing from the Caribbean, Gascot traces his childhood roots to Puerto Rico, an origin that fuels his passion for vibrant hues. While he delves into diverse artistic styles such as Painterly and Geometric Abstractions, his hallmark remains the Latin Pop genre. Coined affectionately after years of honing his craft, "Latin Pop" merges Pop art, Cubism, and Folk art, resulting in a distinct visual dialect. These artworks serve as modern narratives, blending global influences to challenge cultural barriers. In John's Latin Pop creations, cultural boundaries blur as diverse influences intertwine in contemporary tales. His aim is to craft art that is both inclusive and thought-provoking, questioning social and gender norms dictated by various societies.

CENTRAL ARTS DISTRICT

25. MOREAN ARTS CENTER & GLASS STUDIO: 719 Central Ave., St. Pete FL 33701 - (727) 822-7872 – Mikhail Gubin: Collages “It all started with simply cutting up magazines, followed by gluing the cut out pieces together into some surrealist visionary compositions. There was (and is) a period when I made charcoal drawings on large sheets of paper and then cut them up and glued them together to create abstract paintings. I love creating abstract paintings using pasted designs of paper or fabric. “Somehow, the idea arose to create art objects from wood waste discarded by skyscraper builders after the construction was completed.” Caelan Jeffery: Appalachia--Latch-not-Lay - “For this particular exhibition, over 20 works of art were made of hand cut leather on a wooden frame. Mediums include shoulder stock leather, wood, spray paint, acrylics, watercolors, leather dyes, archival inks, brad tack nails, upholstery tacks, artificial sinew, studs, and fur. “Each piece was carefully rendered from selected historical black and white photographs taken throughout the 1900s that represent Appalachian history. *Influencers: 2025 Members Show - The 2025 members exhibition showcases nearly 200 works of art with an “Influencers” theme, inviting artists to think about who (or what) influenced them, then using that inspiration to create something using paint, ceramics, metal, photography, and. Each Morean member is invited to submit one work of art for the exhibition. Danny Olda, Curatorial Director at the Dunedin Fine Art Center, serves as guest juror, helping to choose awards for participating artists.

26. THE STUDIO@620, Inc.: 620 1st Ave. S., St. Pete, FL 33701 – Art teaches life lessons – whether creating it or appreciating it! Through art, students of all ages can appropriately – and freely – express their own feelings while benefiting from cognitive and physical development, strengthening problem-solving and critical-thinking skills, developing a sense of goal-setting, and nurturing social skills that are critical inside and outside the classroom walls. Art has the capacity to engage all life-long learners, regardless of exceptionalities. This exhibition will showcase the 2-D and 3-D artwork produced by Kindergarten through 12th grade ESE students currently enrolled in visual arts courses in Pinellas County Schools.

27. FLORIDA CRAFTART: 501 Central Ave., St. Pete FL 33701 - (727) 821-7391 – Florida CraftArt presents 99 Bottles, an exhibition that takes a fresh look at one of the most familiar and functional forms—the bottle. While bottles are designed to carry liquids, they also carry layered meanings: symbols of celebration, preservation, indulgence, healing, or even memory. This exhibition invites artists to explore the bottle not just as a vessel, but as a powerful metaphor, reimagined through the lens of contemporary fine craft.

28. THE ARTLOFTS OF ST. PETERSBURG: 10 5th St. N., St. Pete, FL 33701 - Second Floor - (727) 449-5146 – Artists Mavis Gibson and Jeannine Hascall are pleased to announce their collaborative exhibition “FACETS,” opening at the ArtLofts this August. Gibson will present her recent figurative paintings alongside Hascall's contemporary fiber work in this thoughtfully curated show where both mediums dialogue to create a unified artistic experience. The paintings and fiber creations are designed to complement each other, exploring themes of form, texture, and human expression through their distinct yet harmonious artistic voices.

28. B. STARK ART: 10 5th St. N. Studio 208, St. Pete, FL 33701 Second Floor - (727) 821-5759 – Pop up show that is a fundraiser for Florida Rat

Rescuers Network. I am sponsoring guest artists, including the work by Taylore Peck, included here. Artists from across the Tampa Bay area have created adorable works and will donate partial or all of sale proceeds to a 501C3 who rescues domestic rats in need.
